General Grant Cook Stove,
The only Stove in market constructed upon scientific principles.
We feel assured in calling the attention of the public to this Stove, that we have a Stove superior to anything in the market.
A large class of diseases arise from the poisonous gases and vapors saturating our food during the baking process, and infecting the atmosphere of the room.
We have met this demand by furnishing a Stove with an Oven into which there is a Constant Flow of Fresh Heated Air
Combining with and carrying those gases and vapors up the chimney.

Ritchie's Liquid Compass!
THE Ritchie Compass which has been the standard Compass in the navy for upwards of four years, and also in extensive use in the merchant service, should be used on every class of vessels where a compass is to be depended on. It combines all the qualities of a perfect instrument. To extreme sensitiveness and perfect steadiness is added a strength and durability which prevents them from getting out of order like other compasses. The reason for this is apparent to any one upon examination. A single trial of this compass has always resulted in its adoption and the rejection of every other kind.

CANCERS CAN BE CURED!
DR. L. CHASE,
(LATE OF PORTLAND),
THE CELEBRATED
INDIANOPATHY, CANCER & HUMOR
DOCTOR,
HAVING purchased the residence of H. A. WOOD, 54 Hammond Street, Bangor, Maine, would be happy to be consulted by all who are afflicted with Cancers, Cancer Humors, Tumors, Scrofula, Leprosy, Salt Rheum, Fits, Neuralgia, Bronchial Affections, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Sick Headache, Liver Diseases, Female Weaknesses, Piles, Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Diseases of the Kidneys Stiff Joints, Gravel, Diabetes, &c., &c.
DR. CHASE has practiced in his profession for sixteen years, and in that time has spent two years in Florida and Cuba, for the purpose of gaining a correct knowledge of the most efficient remedies used by the various tribes of Indians of that country, and by great expense has gained many valuable secrets which have heretofore been unknown to the world.
In Cancer he claims superiority over all other Physicians of the age, for he never fails to perform a cure when taken in a proper stage.
His mode of curing Cancers is by the application of a plaster, which is strictly vegetable, and will have no effect upon the healthy flesh; and in no case uses a knife, as does the Science, of Boston.
He also boldly asserts that he can tell every individual their disease and location of their pains, and describe their feelings in almost every case, more minutely than they can possibly themselves.
Dr. Chase is not a Clairvoyant, but conducts his examinations on a strictly scientific principle, and will challenge any professed medium for a test examination.
Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Examinations free. Office at residence No. 54 Hammond Street.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.

A publication is made, apparently by authority, in the National Republican of this morning that the President is necessarily engaged upon important public matters preparatory to the early assembling of Congress, and will have no time until after the meeting of that body to give the slightest attention to the applications for office. All such matters are referred to the heads of the different departments. Office-seekers and their friends can save themselves much time, labor and expense, by acting upon the above hints, and will relieve the President from the unpleasant necessity of declining to entertain and examine their applications. It is a physical impossibility for him to prepare his message, and at the same time transact detail business appropriately belonging to his Cabinet Ministers.

HEAVY VERDICT FOR LEGAL SERVICES In the U. S. Circuit Court at New York last week, Gorham J. Abbott, who claimed $23,000 in compensation of services as counsel for Thomas A. THE POPE OBJECTS TO ITALIAN REFORMS. The full text of the Pope's allocution shows that the telegraphic dispatch referring to it by no means gave an adequate idea of its tone. It re-asserts in the most positive manner the doctrine of the temporal sovereignty of the Pope; renews the protest against the annexation of the Pontifical States by the King of Italy, and denounces all those who took part in that proceeding. The following is the first part of this document:

"Venerable Brethren: More than once, O venerable brethren, exercising our apostolic office, we have deplored, either in our published letters, or in divers allocutions delivered in your most august assembly, the affliction which has hung for a long time in Italy over the affairs of our very holy religion, and to the very grave insults offered to us and to the Holy See by the sub Alpine government. Moreover, you must comprehend with what grief we are seized now that we see that government, with a passion that is increasing every day, constantly attacking the Catholic Church, its wholesome laws, and its sacred ministers; when we see, alas, venerable bishops, and the most virtuous clergy, both secular and regular, and other most excellent Catholic citizens, sent into exile by that government, without the least regard for religion, justice or humanity, or thrown into prison, or condemned to forced residence, molested in the most unworthy manner; dioceses deprived of their pastors, to the great detriment of souls; virgins devoted to god taken away from their convents and reduced to beggary; God's temples violated; diocesan schools closed against the members of the clergy; the education of the Catholic youths taken out of Christian discipline and confided to professors of errors and iniquities, and the patrimony of the church usurped and sold. That same government, in contempt of ecclesiastical censures, and without paying the least regard to our most just complaints and those of our most venerable brethren, the bishops of Italy, has sanctioned similar laws, totally contrary to the Catholic Church, to its doctrine and its rights, and condemned by us; and it has not hesitated to promulgate a law respecting civil marriage, as it is called—a law quite contrary not only to Catholic doctrine, but likewise to the well-being of civil society. Such a law tramples under foot the dignity and sacredness of marriage. It destroys it as an institution, and encourages a concubinage that is perfectly scandalous. In fact, a marriage cannot take place among the faithful without there being at the same time a sacrament. It belongs, therefore, exclusively to the church to decide on everything concerning the sacrament of marriage. Moreover, that government—injuring in an evident manner the condition of those who make public profession of religious vows, which have always had and always will have force in God's church, and not recognizing the very great advantage of the regular orders which, founded by men of holiness and approved by the Holy Apostolic See, have in an especial manner deserved the thanks of the Christian republic, civil and literary, by so many glorious labors and so many pious and useful works—has not feared to sanction a law suppressing throughout its entire territory all religious corporations of both sexes; it has appropriated all their property, and a great deal of other property belonging to the church, and has ordered it to be divided.

ENGLAND.

Earl Derby in a late speech said the ministry desired to earn the good will of the people by their acts, but he thought it would not be well at present to state how they proposed to carry their desire into effect. He rejoiced at the return of peace in both hemispheres. He could not but believe that the great and powerful nation, America, would speedily know how to quell the agitation that at present existed within it, and that peace would reign from one end of its shores to the other. He looked upon the completion of the Atlantic cable as another proof that England was mistress of the seas.

The London Times says Derby made one of his happiest after-dinner speeches, and it notices, as of great importance, the intimation that a proposition for the arrangement of the Alabama claims would probably be entertained, and that the duties of neutral powers in maritime wars might, if necessary, be reconsidered.

The representatives of about 150 trade societies met in London on the 9th, to arrange for the great Metropolitan reform demonstration by the working classes, on the 3d of December. It was resolved to recommend that that day be observed as a holiday, and that the employers of labor be called upon, as far as practicable, to close their shops.

It is reported that a well matured plan was under consideration by D'Israeli, Chancellor of the Exchequer, for placing the debenture system of English railways on a basis of perfect security, and also of making them contributary to the reduction of the national debt. Another statement is that he will propose in his next budget that the government assume all the debentures of railways, guaranteeing to the holders 2 per cent. less than the railways pay, and in 40 years the national debt is to be reduced to 120 pounds sterling by the profits. Something similar is in course of arrangement for telegraphs.

ITALY.

Several persons of position in Palermo had been arrested for complicity in the September insurrectionary movement. Among others the Bishops of Monceale had been discovered to be implicated. Victor Emmanuel continued his visit to Venice and was engaged in inspecting the public institutions.

ROME.

Gladstone had had another interview with the Pope, and had visited many of the Cardinals. Rumor attributed his visits to political motives, and the London Morning Herald charges that his design was to reconcile the Pope to the fate which awaits him, and says that he has completely failed in his efforts. Earl Clarendon had also reached Rome, and would have an audience with the Pope.

POLITICAL. The St. Louis News says the effect of the Republican victory in Missouri is seen in the rapid increase of immigration. Immigrants who had camped along the Mississippi, in Illinois, waiting to see the result of the election, are now crossing the river in great numbers and purchasing farms and homes.

At a recent election in Galveston, Texas, for District Attorney and Judge, 1070 votes were cast, the largest number polled at any election since the secession of Texas.

A Washington special says that Secretary McCulloch will not object to the removal of Commissioner Rollins from the Internal Revenue Department in case the President will appoint David A. Wells to the place.—An effort will be made at the next session of Congress to take the appointment of the Revenue Commissioners from the President and give it to Congress.

THE FREEDMEN IN GEORGIA. There are now in Georgia 48 schools for freedmen, with 64 teachers and 2756 pupils. Of these teachers 23 are colored and 40 are white, and of the scholars 1109 are males and 1646 females. The freedmen themselves are sustaining 34 of these schools, with an equal number of teachers and 1080 scholars, and they partly sustain 14 other school. During the month of October they paid about $1000 for the purpose of education, which shows that they are willing to pay for their education when they have the ability. The number of schools and of scholars is rapidly increasing in Georgia, and will continue to increase as the freedmen realize more fully the benefits to be conferred upon them by the schools. There is still considerable antagonism between the whites and blacks in Georgia, and murders of the freedmen are of frequent occurrence in many of the counties.

A PERMANENT INVESTMENT. The N. Y. Sun says: "The English holders of rebel bonds still seem to be troubled with the hallucination that they will some day realize from their investment in the defunct Southern Confederacy. This delusion manifests itself at intervals and under different phases. According to our accounts, the afflicted bondholders are just now laboring under the phantasy that they can in some way attach the money due to the United States from England upon the Alabama claims, for the liquidation of their claim upon the deceased S. C. It does not appear just how they propose to arrange this little matter, but they apparently imagine that the United States is an idiot. Such is lunacy. The rebel bondholders have about the same prospect of getting back their investment in the Confederacy that the latter has of coming to life again; not so much as that, in fact, for the ex-rebels have repudiated both these bonds and the silly Englishmen who invested money in them. The only consolation that we can give the bondholders is the assurance that their investment is perfectly good, so long as they don't want to use the money. For a secure, permanent investment we know of none better than theirs.

The humiliation caused by the election of John Morissey to Congress is somewhat lessened by the consolation that the English cannot cast a stone of reproach at us. For it is a historical fact that John Gully, who was one of the most noted prize fighters of his day, and who fought several fierce battles with Pearce, the "game chicken," and Gregson, in 1805, 1807 and 1808, was elected as a member of the British Parliament in 1832, and sat in the House of Commons as the representative of the borough of Pontefract until 1837, when he declined further political honor.

George Francis Train has written a letter descriptive of the Pacific Railroad excursion. On the trip the party passed a prairie dog village, of which Train says: A million dogs. Two shot. Ancona kills a dog.—Painter a rattlesnake. Five hundred shots and two killed. I shot none, because I could not see what harm they had done. They were not rebels! How peculiar they live. A prairie dog, an owl and a rattlesnake, and in one hole. A radical, Conservative and Copperhead living in one "Happy Family!"

One of the boarders owed him $20, and, as a receipt for $20 or over requires a two-cent stamp, the man gave the boy a receipt for $19.99 and gave him back one penny, thus saving one cent. If anybody can beat that in meanness, let's hear of it.

Amherst College is soon to have the largest meteorite possessed by any cabinet in America. A mass of meteoric iron, weighing 535 pounds, found high up the Rocky Mountains, and secured for the college by Mr. J. Alden Smith, late of Lewiston, is now on its way from Denver City, Colorado. It was shipped at St. Joseph, Mo., on the 3d instant, and will soon arrive at its destination.

The Bangor Orphan Asylum.

To the Editor of the Whig:

You have called the attention of your readers to the appeal from Bath to aid in establishing a Home for the destitute children of those gallant soldiers and sailors, whose lives were sacrificed in defence of their country, and have expressed the wish that the appeal might meet with a generous response.

Probably no one would object to the fulfilment of that wish if it be done by those who feel able to let their charity do its blessed work abroad, as well as at home, but the citizens of Bangor generally, may well be excused from answering this call, when it is remembered that there is now a strenuous effort being made to establish a "Children's Home" in this city, in which special provision is to be made for the care and support of the orphan children of soldiers and sailors. It can hardly be necessary to remind the public, that a liberal hearted gentleman, formerly of Bangor, now of Boston, has promised to erect in our city, a building suitable for the above purpose, at a cost of $12,000, provided our people will subscribe an adequate sum for its endowment. A committee of gentlemen and ladies have the matter in charge, and it is understood that they have decided that $25,000, with the property now owned by the Asylum, will yield a sufficient sum, in addition to the yearly subscriptions, to support such an institution. Of this sum only $10,000 have yet been subscribed. The time has passed for doing any thing about the new building this year, yet the raising the money ought not to be longer deferred, for the old Asylum building must soon be either extensively repaired, or its use for that object abandoned.

We have heard it asserted by those who ought to know, that when the $25,000 is subscribed, and the Home erected, the Bangor Sanitary Association, (not yet defunct, for they have an executive committee still in being,) intends to appropriate a handsome sum, from the fund still in their hands, to this very object, viz: to provide for the support of the orphans of soldiers and sailors in this Home for destitute children.

Under these circumstances, Mr. Editor, what shall the citizens of Bangor do? Send their money to Bath? or shall they, by immediately filling up the required subscription make it possible for our city to be benefitted by the generous offer of Mr. Pitcher? Is the latter course any less patriotic or less truly liberal than the former?

Possibly some gentlemen like to receive frequent calls from a ladies begging committee. We should judge so from the reply so often given, "Can't attend to it to-day—am so very busy—call again."

If Bangor is determined not to do herself honor on this occasion, perhaps those among us, who carry the cause of the destitute orphans very near their hearts, had better send their contributions to Bath. Whatever is to be done, "'twere well it were done quickly."

CAPTURE OF RAILROAD ROBBERS. The Louisville Journal gives the following account of the capture of a portion of the gang of thieves and desperadoes who threw a train of cars off the track of the Nashville Railroad last week and robbed the passengers:

One of the party, Stephen Conwell, a young man of about 20, made a full confession. He says that two men, residing near Franklin, named King and Finn, conceived the idea. These men sought allies, and got ten men besides a negro, who proved a leading spirit in the whole affair. The party met at a mill about four miles from Franklin, where they matured their plans. They then rode down towards the railroad, when one of them proposed to stop at Conwell's house until he could borrow his pistols.—Conwell refused to loan his pistols, and was anxious to know what was going on. Finally they urged him to go along, telling him the whole plan. He accompanied them to the place on the road where it was agreed that the track should be torn up. Here the negro showed them how to pry up the track, and they forced the rail on one side out, but had not time to remove the other, when they heard the train approaching. So they piled some loose rails on the track, and moved back about three hundred yards to await the train. Conwell says the train thundered along in the darkness at full speed, and when it struck the rails on the track it seemed to him as though it jumped fifty feet. Then he wished that he was safe at home—As soon as the locomotive rolled down the bank the gang rushed up beside the cars and fired each man a shot, up in the air. They had agreed to do this to frighten the passengers, and if any one returned the fire they were to shoot into the train. No one fired, and the men entered the cars, leaving two men and the negro outside as a guard, while they robbed the passengers. As soon as they had finished this they started for the express car, but found that the car had fallen on its side, and that the only open door was on the under side. Before they could force the other door open the whole car was on fire. They then rifled the baggage car of what they could carry, mounted their horses and rode off four miles, when they stopped, plundered the baggage that they had and divided the spoils. Conwell says that when the division was made each man had $11 in money. They then dispersed, each going to his home.

Soon after the robbery some detectives were put on the track, and some of the military were sent down there to hunt the matter out. The citizens of Franklin extended every assistance in their power, and by their knowledge of persons and places, enabled the officers to get all the gang except the negro. He cannot be found.

PATRIOTIC ZEAL OF THE VENETIANS.—Only sixty-nine votes were given at Venice against union with Italy; 641,758 in favor. A young man named Charles Thompson who says he robbed a broker in Detroit of $4000 three years ago, gave himself up to the police of Cincinnati on Thursday, saying his conscience troubled him so that he could not conceal the crime any longer. He had spent the $4000 in Canada, whither he had fled.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21, 1866.

The Republican associations of this city, without distinction of color, are perfecting their arrangements for their welcome to Congress. They propose to have a procession of Union Leagues and 'boys in blue,' an address of welcome by General Logan, responses by Senators and Representatives, and a banquet in the evening. Large delegations of 'boys in blue' from Philadelphia and Baltimore are expected.

Western Republicans arriving here are earnestly urging the impeachment of the President. They propose as the first step the election of Senator Wade of Ohio as President pro tempore of the Senate.

The Republican of this morning has a very severe article on the attempt to remove Mr. Davis from the Assessorship of the First District, and designates the Democrat who attempted to engineer it as "the Vallandigham of Massachusetts, who ought not to be tolerated by any loyal official of this Government, especially at the expense of the Conservative Republicans."—[Special to the Boston Journal.

The Charleston Mercury was issued Monday morning, for the first time since February, 1865. It admits editorially that the war annihilated the theory of States Rights, and proposes to devote itself in the future to the internal development of Southern interests.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILL.

A Certain Cure for Diseased Liver and the many Dangerous Maladies which are caused by a morbid condition of that organ.

To give the public a clear understanding of the mode in which SCHENCK'S Mandrake Pills produce those wonderful effects which are attested by thousands of reliable witnesses, we present a brief and its functions, which will make the operation of this popular medicine perceptible to every man's understanding.

The liver is supplied with blood vessels, nerves and absorbants. One of its obvious uses is to secrete and prepare the bile. It likewise filters the blood and separates that fluid from all impurities. How indispensably necessary to health is the proper performance of this function! If the liver is diseased, it cannot purify the blood, and if that is sent back through the lungs brain and other parts in a morbid condition, it must cause jaundice, biliousness, obstruction of the kidneys, gravel, and many other complaints more or less painful and dangerous, but the least of them quite enough to make a man sick and uncomfortable, and unfit for the performance of any of the duties of life. This unhealthy state of the system very often ends in pulmonary consumption.

The circulation of the blood is conducted in this manner:—The heart sends the vital current down through the arteries; it passes through the flesh, taking up all impurities in its progress: then the stream of blood flows backward through the veins, and passes to the liver to be purified. It is impossible to cure consumption, scrofula, or scarcely any other kind of ulceration while that important organ, the liver, is diseased. It is for that reason that "regular physicians" rarely cure consumption.—They usually begin their treatment with the use of some cough medicine, the basis of which is morphia or opium in some shape, which locks up the liver instead of relaxing the secretions, giving a tone to the stomach, and producing a healthy flow of bile. Dr. Schenck's will strengthen the system, purify the blood, and ripen and heal ulcers on the lungs.

A volume would be required, to give a brief account of the remarkable cures performed by Dr. Schenck's medicines, viz: Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills—all of which are accompanied by full directions for the use of them.

DR. SCHENCK will be professionally at his rooms every week, 32 Bond street, New York, and 35 Hanover street, Boston, from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is five (5) dollars. His medicines are for sale by all druggists and dealers. Also a full supply at all times at his rooms. Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

Peace Hath its Victories.

To prevent or conquer disease is a grand achievement; and as surely as bullet and bayonet will destroy, so surely will HOSTETTER'S BITTERS preserve and prolong life.

This is the most trying period of the year. The stamina of the strongest yields more or less to the consuming temperature of midsummer. Vigor comes from every pore. The strength of man passes away in invisible vapor and weaker women become reduced and nerveless. It was to meet such difficulties that Hostetter's Bitters were given to society. It is to prevent the evil consequences to which an unbraced, depleted, debilitated organization is liable, that they are recommended as a SUMMER TONIC for both sexes. Old people die of exhaustion every day, who might have kept death at bay for years to come, by an occasional resort to this powerful and harmless vegetable stomachic.

Nine-tenths of the community, rich as well as poor, work continually. If their hands are unemployed their brains are busy, and head work is as depressing to the vital energies as muscular toil.—But tone the system with Hostetter's Bitters and the wear and tear of business life will be comparatively unfelt even in the most oppressive weather. No langour will be experienced, for as fast as the vital forces are expended they will be recruited and renewed by this healthful restorative. As a summer Invigorant it is indispensable to young and old. Sold everywhere.

LIFE INSURANCE !
WHICH IS THE BEST ?

THE advertisement published by the Agents of the New York Life Insurance Company does not attempt to controvert the statements we make, drawn from the Massachusetts Insurance Commissioners Report, viz:—that of the four leading Offices the New York Life now

Issues the least number of Policies,
Insures the smallest amount,
Receives the least amount of Premiums and Interest;
Costs more to transact its business, and that their ratio of loss to amount insured is the largest.

The following Table is from the last Report of the Massachusetts Insurance Commissioners, universally acknowledged to be the most reliable authority on Life Insurance in the country, and all these statements are made by the Commissioners themselves.

Number of Members.
Connecticut Mutual,	29,425
New York Life,	15,508
Amount Insured.
Connecticut Mutual,	$80,220,371
New York Life,	$43,365,304
Ratio of Assets to Liabilities.
Connecticut Mutual,	144.30
New York Life,	125.28
Policies Issued in 1865.
Connecticut Mutual,	8101
New York Life,	4108
Amount Insured in 1865.
Connecticut Mutual,	$23,735,080
New York Life,	$12,883,709
Income of 1865.
Connecticut Mutual,	$3,858,210 73
New York Life,	$2,447,439 56
Ratio of Expenses to Receipts.
Connecticut Mutual,	9.86
New York Life,	12.65
Ratio of Losses to Amount Insured.
Connecticut Mutual,	91
New York Life,	1.32

These figures incontestibly prove that of these two Companies the Connecticut Mutual Life has—

The largest number of members,
Largest Amount Insured,
Largest Surplus,
Largest Business,
Largest Income,
That its expenses and losses are the least, hence that it is

"THE BEST!"

The statement that the New York Life does the largest new business in Boston is without doubt correct, and is solely attributable to the ability and activity of their agent, but the inference they draw that their large business there is owing to the superior advantages offered by their Company is simply an absurdity, as the real popularity and public appreciation of any Company is shown by its total business.

LIFE INSURANCE.

Which is the Best Company to Insure in?

IS the question that interests all persons who contemplate effecting Insurance. This question stands at the head of our notice, and all facts which tend to give the correct answer to this question are interesting to the public. We desire the true answer, and will use all the means within our power to obtain it, and thank the Connecticut Mutual, through their general agents, for so far noticing our advertisement as to institute the comparison.

They say—"In a recent statement published by the New York Life Insurance Company, they give a comparison of business transacted in the State of Massachusetts by four leading Life offices, from which they derive the consoling fact that they do the greatest business in the State." As they have honored us with the notice, we drop the other Companies, that the Connecticut Mutual may have the full advantage of the comparison.

The New Business of these Companies in the City of Boston, for 1864, was as follows:

New York Life,	$1,232,000
Connecticut Mutual,	174,600
New Business for 1865:
New York Life,	$2,362,100
Connecticut Mutual,	218,600
(printed in our adv. by mistake, 31800.)
New business in the whole State of Massachusetts, for 1865.
New York Life,	$2,918,000
Connecticut,	1,030,705

These facts should be "consoling" to the managers of any Company. Would it not be gratifying if the Connecticut Mutual could exhibit the same results in the same localities?

Their consolation is derived from the fact that there are places in which they are doing a large business. If the persons in those regions understand the subject of Life Insurance and financial matters better than they do in Boston or in the State of Massachusetts, would it not be interesting to name the localities?

Is it not rather from the fact that the plan of Life Insurance, as worked by the Connecticut Mutual, is not understood, that enables them to succeed?

It is known to all agents, and to none better than those of the Connecticut Mutual, that in a majority of cases the parties rely rather upon the integrity of the agent than their own knowledge of the comparative standing of the Companies.

Now, that the Connecticut Mutual has been so kind as to make the comparison, we hope it will be full and fair, and to that end we will join in the examination of the Reports of the Commissioners of New York and Massachusetts, with the statements and correspondence of underwriters and financial men, and the Connecticut Mutual may then perhaps discover why their business in Boston and in the State of Massachusetts is not so large as in some other localities.

The correspondence between Commissioner Barnes and Dr. Phelps, then Secretary, but now President of the Connecticut Mutual, was then generally circulated and well understood. (The correspondence may be found in the New York Reports of 1864, which may be seen at this office.) If these reports had been as freely circulated and fully read in all other localities as they were in Boston, they would probably have had the same results.

We will only add that in 1861, '62 and '63, the New York Life issued more policies than any other company in the United States;—that in 1864 and '65 its cash receipts for premiums exceed those of the Connecticut Mutual; and its excess of income over expenditure in 1865 (see New York Commissioners' Report, page 100) was $1,042,812 90
Connecticut Mutual, 953,837 69

Ratio of Cash Expenses to Cash Receipts,

New York Life 16.80, Conn. Mutual 20.52.

Losses in 1865 as given in New York Commissioners' Report, which was made two months later than the report quoted from by the aforesaid Agent:

New York Life,	$173,523
Connecticut Mutual,	668,112

We will issue, in a few days, a circular instituting a comparison, in part, and, trust that through the efforts of both parties the public may be enabled to answer the question propounded at the head of this article.

Any information may be obtained by addressing Capt. Gilbert as above.

—In Police Court on Wednesday, Leander Cushing (arrested by officer Walker) was examined on charge of stealing a watch and chain and overcoat in October—all of the value of $125—and was bound over to answer in the sum of $400. The property had been sold for $15 after it was stolen. Not much of a speculation.

—The young men's weekly union prayer meeting will be held this (Friday) evening in the Vestry of the Third Parish Church, French street, at 8 o'clock. All young men are earnestly invited to attend.

PRETTY CHEAP. We see that Mr. J. B. Foster advertises rifles and carbines in good order at $2,50 to $3,00 each. We suppose those are United States arms which have been sold by government to make way for the improved repeating arms.

WINTER FARES. The following is the winter tariff of railroad fares between Bangor and Boston via Maine Central—commencing December 1st. From Bangor to Hermon Pond 45 cents; to Carmel 65; Etna 80; East Newport $1,00; Newport 1,25; Dexter 1,55; Pittsfield 1,70; Burnham 2,00; Clinton 2,25; Kendall's Mills 2,50; Waterville 2,50; West Waterville 2,50; North Belgrade 2,95; Belgrade 3,15; Readfield 3,45; Winthrop 3,70; Monmouth 3,95; Leeds Junction 4,20; Greene 4,40; Lewiston and Auburn 4,70; Danville Junction 5,00; New Gloucester 5,25; North Yarmouth 5,60; Yarmouth Junction 5,75; Portland 6,00; Boston 8,00.

The following will be the fares from Bangor to stations on the Portland & Kennebec road; To Winslow $2,65; Vassalboro 2,85; Augusta 3,00; Haltowell 3,40; Gardiner 3,80; Richmond 4,30; Bowdoinham 4,75; Brunswick 5,10; Bath 5,15.

—We are requested to say that the adjourned annual meeting of the Bangor Freedmen's Aid Association will be held at the Mayor and Aldermen's room this evening, at half-past seven o'clock. A full attendance, especially of the members of the Executive Committee, is very important.

—The Argus says that Messrs. Nash & Waite of Calais are building a first-class railway at that place. This firm owns a dry dock, but finding that it was not sufficient to accommodate their business were obliged to add the railway.

—A bone mill at Duck Pond in Westbrook turns out four or five hundred tons annually of Super Phosphate of Lime for agricultural purposes, and which finds a ready sale. So says the Argus.

—The Gardiner Reporter says tenements to rent are scarcer than ever in Gardiner.—If this state of things continues without any additional buildings being erected, people will be obliged to return to first principles and live in tents.

A splendid white oak ship of 1250 tons was launched at Thomaston on the 10th, by Messrs. Thompson & Walsh, named "The Pride of the Port," and one of the handsomest and best ships ever built in Maine. She is rated A 1 with a star for ten years.—She was modeled and built by master M. P. Woodcock of this city, who as a draughtsman and builder has few equals and no superior in the State.—Belfast Age.

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin has been invited to preside at the evening banquet which will follow the mass welcome to Congress on the 1st of December. The Governors of all the loyal States and the Mayors of the principal cities are among the invited guests.—Boston Advertiser.

COLLISION. We learn from the Portland Advertiser that the schooner Rinaldo, Capt Eaton, for Deer Isle, while leaving that harbor on Wednesday, was run into by schooner Emily, Capt. Grant, from Ellsworth, that was coming in. The Rinaldo was struck on the starboard bow, carrying away the whole waist forward, and splitting the water ways. The Rinaldo anchored near the Cape.

THE CASE OF HON. F. O. J. SMITH.—The case of Mr. Smith, for which a new trial was granted, was placed upon the docket in the Superior Court in Boston on Monday, and the day assigned for trial. The Advertiser says that the District Attorney had withdrawn the indictment and discharged the bail of $25,000, which was tantamount to a nol pros, but the defendant protested against the authority of the Attorney and demanded a trial.

RAILROAD FROM BATH TO ROCKLAND. The Bath people are taking this project up with vigor, and will do all they can to make it an accomplished fact. A citizens' meeting has been called for next Tuesday, when the subject of loaning the city credit to the proposed line will be considered.

AN APPLICANT FOR RATIONS. The Advertiser says that a woman applied to the Relief Committee a few days since to be supplied with rations, stating that she had nine in her family, and no husband. A member of the committee took her name and residence and subsequently called at her house, where, to his great astonishment he discovered that she had told the truth; but her family consisted of nine stalwart men who were boarders.

Messrs. Wheeler & Lynde:

The following anecdote which is worthy of record was related to me to-day. It is related of General Grant, by one of his workmen, that when the General was doing business at Galena one day his clerk engaged of a countryman a load of hogs. The man brought them to the General. He asked how much he was to have for them.—The man told the General that his clerk engaged them at 4½ cents. The General replied that was yesterday's price, that they had risen since and to-day they were worth 5 cents and the General paid him 5 cents.

S.

—We learn from the Farmington Chronicle that Charles J. Talbot, Esq., removed from the office of Surveyor of the port at Portland, because he did not endorse "my policy," and who of course is succeeded by a Democrat, has returned to his beautiful residence in Wilton and engaged in the personal superintendence of his valuable farm. On retiring from office, his associate, some twenty-five in number, presented him an elegant gold-headed cane, appropriately engraved in token of their esteem. The cost value of the present is about fifty dollars.

Deputy W. H. Cunningham assisted by members of the Belfast Lodge, instituted a Lodge of Good Templars in Stockton, last Thursday evening. It is called Logan Lodge, and was started with nearly fifty members.—Belfast Age.

—The Rockland Free Press, speaking of the removals in Belfast Collection District, thus speaks of our friend Simonton, whom Andy, "in swinging round the circle," has hit:

At Camden, T. R. Simonton, Esq., is removed from the Deputy Collectorship to make room for Edward Cushing. Mr. Simonton has been a faithful and efficient officer, has been active in ferreting out bounty catchers, and has made smuggling a dangerous business in his locality. The "head and front of his offending" is that he has been an open and outspoken opponent of "my policy." All who heard him at the Rockland county convention will recollect the contrast between his bold utterance of his sentiments and the speech of Gen. Tillson.

SUICIDE OF AN ARMY OFFICER. Lieut. Frederick Weed, recently commander of the Second California cavalry, and related to Thurlow Weed, committed suicide at Great Salt Lake City on the 1st inst. His circumstances and position were comfortable, and no cause for the act can be given. In a letter found under his pillow after his death, he made a disposition of his property and said: "I take my leap into the unknown future without misgiving. I am tired. I am discouraged." He had taken, it seems, an ounce of laudanum while insane. He was a young man of much promise, and had worked his way up from a private to lieutenant in the regular army since 1861, by his bravery and personal merit.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE VERMONT LEGISLATURE. The Vermont Legislature for 1866; which has been in session for forty days, adjourned sine die on Monday evening at 11 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.

The President has informed Gen. Frank Blair that he regards the question of impartial suffrage as belonging exclusively to the States, and without the pale of Executive dictation. As regards the question of universal amnesty urged by Southern men, he has not yet come to a conclusion.—Sp. to Boston Herald.

BEST BAGGAGE FOR A TRAVELLER.—"That seat is occupied," said a bright-eyed girl at the hotel table to a man who was about to take it. "Occupied?" he growled, "where's his baggage?" With a saucy upward look at him, "I'm his baggage," she said. And this brings me to say that if you are going a long journey in regions where it is first come first served," the most desirable piece of baggage you can take with you is not a hat box or a blanket, but a woman. If you have none, then marry one, for you are not thoroughly equipped for the road till you do. When dinner is ready you follow in her blessed wake, and are snugly seated beside her, and exactly opposite the platter of chickens, before the hirsute crowd, womanless as Adam was till he fell into a deep sleep, are left in the air. There you are, and there they will remain, with the two best chairs in the house, served and smiled on. Look down the table at the unhappy fellows some of them actually buttoning the chairs they occupy, and the arms and hands reaching in every direction across the table like the tentacules of a gigantic polypus. When night comes and with a border tavern, it is not you that shift uneasily from side to side on the barroom floor. There is your best bed and gets it and you share it. You follow her into the best car; she is first in the stage coach, and you are too. More than that, a woman keeps you "upon your honor," you are pretty sure to behave yourself all the way.

The tragic story that three thousand Cretan insurgents were drowned by the rising tide in a cave on the coast is discredited, because, first, there is no tide at Candia, and, second, the place where the affair is said to have occurred is up in the mountains above the reach of any flow save a Deluge.

The Mormons threaten to invade Lowell. Brigham Young said, in a late discourse at Salt Lake: "The last time I was in the city of Lowell there were fourteen thousand more females than males in that one city.—That is many years ago. They live and die in a single State, and are forgotten. Have they filled the measure of their creation, and accomplished the design of heaven in bringing them upon the earth? No; they have not. Two thousand good, God fearing men could go there, and take to themselves seven wives apiece."

Edward Hasking, who was convicted at the Municipal Court, Taunton, on Monday, of stealing a horse and team for a ride, was sent to the school ship, by order of the Judge of Probate. This should be a warning to the urchins and boys of larger growth, who have been pursuing this game altogether too frequently for some time past.

Rev. Mark Trafton, pastor of the Chestnut street Methodist Church, Providence, R. I., has actually accepted an invitation to take the pastoral charge of the "Memorial Church" in Springfield, Mass., recently organized as an independent church. Mr. Trafton will remove to Springfield in March next at the close of the conference year.

An eye and ear doctor in Chicago, named Underwood, has been arrested on a civil suit brought by Enos Miles; alleging malpractice in the doctor's treatment of an inflammation of his (Miles') eyes, causing them to grow worse and rendering him totally and incurably blind. Damages laid at $50,000. The malpractice is alleged to have consisted in the improper use of chloride of gold and nitrate of silver. The former was applied to the plaintiff's eyes morning, and the latter at night.

We find the following in the local column of the Hartford Press:

Jo King said you could tell all those who died up to see the "stars shoot badly from their spheres," by the maddest they profound dfluezy.'

A WARNING TO JEALOUS WIVES.—Mrs. Her, a pretty young married lady, living not far from Twenty-fourth street, has been reading "Griffith Gaunt," story of jealousy everybody knows. Now, Mrs. Miller was herself not a little inclined to jealousy though her worthy husband has never given her cause for such a feeling. What an awful thing it would be," thought the little woman, "if my husband should go off and marry another woman as that wicked Griffith did?" The bare thought of such a contingency made her feel nervous. The morning after she had finished the book, Mr. Miller started early for Philadelphia on a matter of business, as he alleged. This the wife believed, till, in the course of the morning, she received a visit from Miss Green, an ugly young lady, who was still a maiden. Evidently something was in the wind, as Miss Green indicated. After considerable hesitation, she revealed the secret. She had been to the depot to see some friends off by the train, and had witnessed Mr. Miller getting on board the cars with a pretty young lady, of whom he seemed to be fond. Excited by the story, poor Mrs. Miller needed no other confirmation of her worst fears. Her husband was bent on committing bigamy, she was sure. "What could you do if you were in my place, Miss Green?" she asked with a sob. "I'd go after him, and bring him back," said Miss Green, compressing her lips resolutely. Mrs. Miller felt so miserable that she felt she could not have a moment's peace until she had seen her doubts. She decided to follow the proffered advice. It was yet early, as Miss Green had come up directly from the depot. There was time to catch the ten o'clock train. Mrs. Miller dressed herself hastily, and taking a Broadway omnibus, was on hand at the time. In due season she arrived at Philadelphia, and proceeded to the Continental Hotel. Here she fell in with a gentleman whom she had known before her marriage. Feeling helpless, and with many tears communicated her dreadful suspicions, and besought his advice. "Our husband will probably be at the theatre this evening," said Mr. B., "so I'll better go, and confront him with the lady." "But I can't go alone." "I will accompany you with pleasure." Thus it was arranged. Mrs. Miller and her escort occupied seats in the dress circle. Looking anxiously about for Mr. Miller finally discovered her husband occupying a seat not far off. But he was alone! She began to hope it was all right. Just then the husband chanced to turn his head, and to his astonishment beheld the wife whom he had left at home, in company with a gentleman whom he did not know. He was not inclined to jealousy, but it looked bad. He instantly made his way to his wife's seat, and with a stormness she had never before exhibited, demanded the cause of her presence. "In one word," said she, "tell me if you have deliberately become faithless to me." "I faithless!" ejaculated Mrs Miller, horror struck. "Yes madam!" "How can you dream of such a thing, Charles?" and she was ready to cry. "Excuse me, I find you here with this man," said Charles savagely, "when you ought to be at home." "I thought you had run away with another woman," explained Mrs. Miller, "really did, Charles, and so I—I came after you." The story was told after a while, and it turned out that Mr. Miller's companion was a young lady placed in his charge by a friend. Somewhat ashamed, but very happy, Mrs. Miller transferred herself to her husband's charge and returned the next evening perfectly cured of her jealous imaginings.—N. Y. Sun.

LIFE INSURANCE!

IN a recent statement published by the NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, they give a comparison of business transacted in the State of Massachusetts by the four leading LIFE OFFICES, from which they derive the consoling fact that they do the greatest business in that State. Of course it is absurd to judge of the relative standing of a Company by the amount of its business in any one locality, and the attention of the public is respectfully called to the following statistics of all business done by these offices as per last Report of the Massachusetts Insurance Commissioners:—

	New York Life	Mutual Benef.	Mutual Life	Connecticut Mutual	Policies Issued.	Amount Insured.	Premiums and Ratio of Expenses to Receipts	Losses.	Ratio of Losses to am't Insured
	4108	6208	4895	8101	$23,735,280	$3,858,210 73	9.86	$600,472	91
	12,883,709	29,083,189	17,115,707	12.60
	2,447,439 56	3,182,317 37	3,499,451 43	674364
	12.05	— 10.53	— 12.60	97				587,995	96.
	508,580
	1.32

From the above Table we gather that the New York Life Company has issued the least number of Policies of either of these offices.

That it has insured the smallest amount.

That it has cost the most to transact its business; and

That its losses have been the greatest in proportion to the amount insured.

We leave the public to infer "WHICH IS THE BEST COMPANY TO INSURE IN."

THE PORTLAND KEROSENE OIL,

IS an entirely different article from the various refined Petroleums or Coal Oils daily sold as Kerosene. Its superiority consists in its great brilliancy of light; it does not smoke the glass or crust the wick; is free from offensive odor; entirely safe from explosion; and will last fifteen per cent. longer than any other oil.

It is put up in new heavy barrels, cemented inside, which entirely prevents leakage, and purchasers get the full number of gallons they pay for.

The subscriber offers the oil to the trade at the Factory price, delivered in Bangor.

Do They Wait for Us?

Does the dark and soundless river
Stretch so wide—
The homeward rolling tide
Over which have crossed
Our loved and early lost,
That their unsealed eyes may never see
The further side
Where still amid this coil and misery
We hide?

Is the realm of their transition
Close at hand
To this our living land?
Nearer than we dream?
Can they catch the gleam
Of our smiles and hear the words we speak?
And see our deeds?
And looking deeper than our eyes, may seek
Our needs?

Do they mingle in our gladness?
Do they grieve
When ways of good we leave?
Do they know each thought and hope?
While we in shadows grope,
Can they hear the Future's high behest,
Yet lack the power
To lead us from our ill or to arrest
The hour?

When they find us bowed in sorrow
Do they sigh?
Or when earth passes by
For them, do they forget
The cares that here beset
Their well beloved? Or do they wait
(O be it thus!)
And watch beside the golden gate
For us?

A Duel or a Wedding.

BY N. P. DARLING.

I am an ardent admirer of female beauty. I ought to have been an artist or a sculptor, but I am neither. I have thought some of running an ambrotype gallery—one of those kind you know, where they run from town to town, stopping on a vacant lot or on the common for a week or two, to transfer the faces of the town's people to glass; but I gave up that idea at last, for the sole reason that I am not of a roving disposition. I want to settle in one spot, and the spot I did settle in was just at the corner of Crown and Morton streets in W——.

I was book-keeper for Brown & Co., wholesale dealers in hides and tallow. Henry Bowers, a young man of very lively disposition, and also an admirer of female beauty, was employed in the same office. We boarded and roomed together at the corner of Crown and Morton.

One night Henry and I attended one of the lyceum lectures. I think it was Mr. Beecher that delivered the lecture. But whether it was or not, it does not matter, for I do not intend to speak of the lecturer, but of a certain young lady I saw there.

We occupied seats very near the stage—we came early. There were very few in the hall at the time, but the seat directly in front was filled with ladies. I believe there was one gentleman, though I did not take much notice of him.

We had hardly been in the hall five minutes, before my attention was fixed upon one of the ladies upon the front seat. She was a little to the right of me, but as she was talking very earnestly with the lady next to her, her face was turned towards us; and, susceptible as I am, I could not be impressed with the beauty of it.

Bowers noticed her too, and punched me in the ribs, to attract my attention.

"A little out of the common order, eh, McDougal?" he whispered.

"Lovely, I think do you know her?"

And just then the organ began to blow; and Bowers, who is also a lover of music as well as of beauty, turned his attention to the organ, which, by the way, is always played an hour before the lecture commences, for you see the people of W—— have got a great organ lately, and they cant let it rest whenever they have an opportunity to display its powers.

A month passed away without my seeing anything of the beautiful stranger. But about that time I received an invitation to visit my friend Mrs. Segard in M——. She was a widow of forty, and is the mother of a certain Miss Segard, familiarly called Clara. I think that Mrs. Segard has tried to bring about a marriage between Clara and myself, and I believe I was not much opposed to the match. Clara was a good girl, everybody said, a very pretty brunette, with flashing black eyes and hair, but her form was short, thick and dowdyish. I admire a handsome form quite as much as a handsome face. I might have married her—I really think I should, but for a little affair which happened at U——, which I sat down to tell you about.

The morning I started for M——. Bowers accompanied me to the depot. While I was buying my ticket, I noticed another gentleman come into the waiting room. My first thought was, that it was my shadow before me.—He was about my height, had a light complexion like mine, had eyes of a grizzly gray, and one of them turned in, just like mine. He had a long, thick, snub nose, covered with freckles, an exact copy of mine, his mouth was large, and his front teeth were filled, just like mine.—He wore a long, gray overcoat, which I am sure was manufactured at the Adriatic, and I am almost positive that it was made from the same piece mine was. He had on a tall silk hat, tipped upon one side of his sandy locks, and so did I; and furthermore, he carried in his hand a small carpet bag, with a tag marked "J. McD." tied to the straps.

I looked at him, and he returned the compliment, and Bowers examined him at a distance with an opera glass. At last the stranger advanced across the room, bowed, and stopped directly in front of me.

"Friend," said he, with some hesitation, evidently bewildered, "did your mother ever have twins?"

"No, I never heard that she did," I replied with a smile.

"Well mine never did that I heard of,' and he put his hand upon my coat sleeve, and began to examine the cloth.

'I say sir,' continued the stranger, looking down to the carpet bag that I held, 'and examing the tag, are you John McDolan, or am I?'

'My name is McDougal,' I replied smiling as I heard a gentleman remark to his neighbor "Twins of course. What a resemblance!'

'Well, Mr. McDougal, I hope you are an honest man, for you see, if you should happen to rob a bank, forge a note, pick a pocket, or cut somebody's jugular, I might have to suffer, perhaps swing for it.'

'I can give good references as to my character,' I answered.

'Yes, that's very good. But, Mr. McDougal, which way are you going?'

'Down.' I have bought my ticket.'

'Then I'm going up. I don't think we'd better travel together. There's the train starting now. Good by, I wish you success. And for my sake don't spoil your character.'

Mr. McDolan shook my hand, and hurried away.

The train for U——started five minutes after.

'Don't get married this time down,' said Bowers, as he shook my hand at parting.

'No, never fear that, just yet,' I answered closing the window.

To get to M——, which by the way is a rather out of the way place, a small one horse town, one tavern, two churches, and a poor house, I had to leave the cars at U——, and then take a private conveyance to M——, five miles distant. I could have gone by stage, but that only leaves U——once a day, at five o'clock in the morning.

So when the cars stopped at U——I took my carpet bag in hand, and got out upon the platform.

There was quite a large number of people at the station, but I took no notice of any of them except a tall brawny man, in a brown overcoat and slouched hat, who started for me as soon as I stepped off the cars.

I stopped and looked at him. He frowned, and seemed to restrain himself from some violent action. A decidedly ugly looking customer he was, in truth; but as he was a perfect stranger to me, I really couldn't tell what to make of him. Besides, he was backed by a short, red-faced, black bearded, corpulent gentleman, who looked as fierce as a tiger.

I was about to move away, when the slouched hat, looking down on my carpet bag, started, and coming forward, laid his hand heavily on my shoulder.

'You're a villain!'

'Sir?'

'I repeat it—you're a villain!'

'A miserable scamp!' said the corpulent gentleman, coming forward and scowling more fiercely than ever.

Now I felt that I was a match for the latter, but as to the other one, I didn't doubt but what he might work me up into shoe strings in less than three minutes. So, being a cautious man, I thought it best to keep my angry passions down.

'Will you explain yourself, gentlemen?' I asked, trying to smile.

'Yes, I will,' answered the big one, putting great emphasis on the 'will.'

'Certainly,' growled the corpulent gentleman with a grim smile.

'Come this way, you rascal,' said the tall one, drawing me along with him.

His companion followed us out back of the station, where we were out of sight and hearing of the rest of U——.

'Now,' said the tall gentleman, turning and confronting me, I'll introduce myself. I am Captain Augustus Boynton. This gentleman is my father, John Boynton. Do you know us now?'

'Well, really,' I replied, wondering in my own mind what the deuce was coming—'really, I don't know anything more about you than what you've just told.'

'Hush!' 'Twas the captain; and he bent down and hissed in my ear, 'I am Carrie Boynton's brother.'

'And I am her father,' growled John Boynton.

'Ah, really! I want to know!' I could not help smiling, the whole affair seemed so ludicrous. 'Give my regards to Carrie.'

'Ha! you laugh at us, do you, villain?' cried the captain. 'Look 'ere,' said he, lowering his voice to a horrid whisper. 'Look at these.'

I did look; for just then he drew from the pocket of his brown overcoat a handsome case, and opening it, displayed a pair of splendid silver mounted duelling pistols.

'Take your choice.'

A cold tremor ran through my frame. Was I to be murdered? I tried to shout, but I could make no sound. Must I fight a duel? I'd never fired a pistol in my life but just once, and then I tried to kill a rat, but failed with the pistol, and had to dash her brains out against a stone wall.

'Choose quick,' urged the captain.

'Sir,' said I, in a tremulous voice, while the cold drops of perspiration stood out upon my brow. 'There mu-must be so-some mis-take. I-I am not the man.'

'Pshaw!' answered the captain, looking down at my carpet bag which I had dropped upon the ground, 'You are John McDolan of W——.'

'No sir, I am James McDougal,' I replied with alacrity, for I now saw who I was taken for.

'McDougal be hanged!' growled the captain. 'To be sure I never saw you before but I've seen your photograph a hundred times. You remember the one you gave to Carrie?'

'No sir; I don't know Carrie. I'm no McDolan at all. I'm McDougal of W——. I'm book-keeper for Brown & Co., dealers in hides and tallow. My father was Norton McDougal, and my mother was Mary McDougal; my grandfather was——'

'Confound your grandfather! Either marry my sister, as you promised to do a month ago, or take one of these pistols and ——'

'Oh, help!'

'Dry up, you whelp,' and the Captain clapped his great broad hand over my mouth.

'Choose quick, youngster,' said the elder Boynton.

'I won't fight,' I cried, throwing myself on the ground.

'Then marry my sister, or we'll drag you through the mill pond.'

It was useless for me to remonstrate. I could not convince the enraged father that I was not the villain McDolan. I dared not cry for help.

What should I do? Marry a woman I never saw before, whom I knew nothing about? I had little time to consider. Life was sweet to me, and a ducking was disagreeable, and, as to a duel, I should have been a dead man at the first shot.

'Choose,' said the captain, giving me a kick with his boot.

'I'll I'll mar-marry her.'

'All right. Get up.'

And the captain smiled grimly as he returned the pistol to the case, the case to the pocket.

The elder Mr. Boynton went after the carriage; but before I had ceased to tremble he returned.

The captain helped me in, and then seated between the chivalric father and son, I rode away. There were plenty of people on the street; but I was warned not to shout, if I knew what was healthy for me.

We rode at a smart trot for two miles, I should think, and then the captain drew rein before a large two story white house, that stood near the road surrounded by a high white fence. There was a gravel walk up to the front door, and several large trees stood in the front yard.

The door opened just as we reached it, and Venus, Hebe, Queen Victoria and Gen. Grant! who should fall into my arms but the identical young lady who had made such a strong impression upon my heart the night of the lecture in W——.

'O, John! I knew you would be true,' she cried; and the captain snickered as he led the way into the parlor.

But once there, I succeeded in convincing Miss Boynton that I was not McDolan. Her father apologized, and so did the captain, and the upshot of all was, that I consented to stop over night with them, and I am happy to state that I passed a very pleasant evening.

I learned too, that this John McDolan, for whom I had been taken, was a gentleman of wealth and leisure, with only one fault, and that was promising to marry every pretty woman that he became acquainted with.

Then I told my story, and both Mr. Boynton and the captain seemed pleased, and so did Carrie, especially when I offered to stand in McDolan's shoes.

And—well, my dear reader, I did about a month afterwards. We had a great wedding, and Clara Segard was one of the bridesmaids and Henry Bowers was groomsman. And I am satisfied that McDolan took the up train instead of the down.

SNOW POWDER
Patented May 29, 1866.
This is an article for washing without rubbing, except in very dirty places, which will require a very slight rub, and unlike other preparations offered for a like purpose, WILL NOT ROT THE CLOTHES, but will leave them much WHITER than ordinary methods, without the usual wear and tear.
It removes grease spots as if by magic, and softens the dirt by soaking, so that rinsing will in ordinary cases entirely remove it.
This powder is prepared in accordance with chemical science, and upon a process peculiar to itself, which is secured by Letters Patent. It has been in use for more than a year, and has proved itself an universal favorite wherever it has been used.—Among the advantages claimed are the following, viz:—
It saves all the expense of soap usually used on cotton and linen goods.
It saves most of the labor of rubbing, and wear and tear.
Also, for cleaning windows it is unsurpassed.—With one quarter the time and labor usually required it imparts a beautiful gloss and lustre, much superior to any other mode. No water required except to moisten the powder.
Directions with each package.
And can be readily appreciated by a single trial. The cost of washing for a family of five or six persons will not exceed THREE CENTS.
The manufacturers of this powder are aware that many useless compounds have been introduced to the public which have rotted the cloth, or failed in removing the dirt, but knowing the intrinsic excellence of this article, they confidently proclaim it as being adapted to meet a demand which has long existed, and which has heretofore remained unsupplied.

FELLOWS' ORIGINAL
WORM LOZENGES.
WE can with confidence point to FELLOWS' WORM LOZENGES as the most perfect remedy for those troublesome pests,
INTESTINAL WORMS.
After years of careful experiment, success has crowned our efforts, and we now offer to the world a confection without a single fault, being safe, convenient, effectual and pleasant. No injurious result can occur, let them be used in whatever quantity. Not a particle of calomel enters their composition. They may be used without further preparation, and at any time. Children will eagerly devour all you give them, and ask for more. They never fail in expelling Worms from their dwelling-place, and they will always strengthen the weak and emaciated, even when he is not afflicted with worms.
Various remedies have, from time to time, been recommended, such as calomel, oil of wormseed, turpentine, &c., producing dangerous and sometimes fatal consequences. After much research, study and experiments, embracing several years, the proprietors of FELLOWS' WORM LOZENGES have succeeded in producing this remedy, free from all objections, and positively safe, pleasant and effectual. They do not kill the worms, but act by making their dwelling-place disagreeable to them.
In order to assure consumers of the genuineness of these Lozenges, the analysis of Dr. A. A. HAYES, State Assayer, is annexed:—
"I have analyzed the WORM LOZENGES prepared by Messrs. FELLOWS & CO., and find that they are free from mercury and other metalic or mineral matter. These Lozenges are skilfully compounded, pleasant to the taste, safe, yet sure and effectual in their action. Respectfully, A. A. HAYES, M. D. Assayer to the State of Mass."

The Law Has Passed!
Bounties Equalized.
Justice Done the Early Soldiers and Seamen of the War, their Widows and Heirs.
NOTICE has been sent me from Washington, that the Law equalizing the bounty to Soldiers and Seaman was passed Saturday last, July 28th, by Congress.
I am now authorized and prepared to collect this Bounty for every Soldier and Seaman entitled, also for their Widows and Heirs.
Application made personally at my office, or by mail,—the discharge of the Soldier or Seaman should be handed in—as it must be forwarded with the application.
All applications must be made signed, witnessed and sworn to, AFTER THE PASSAGE OF THIS LAW. Many soldiers have been induced to sign papers before the law passed. This practice is irregular, fraudulent and void, and papers in all such cases must be made over.
